

This app first checks if the local database has any data in it. If it does not then it makes an API call using Retrofit to get the data. As it grabs the JSON file and converts it it then loads that data to the database. The recycler view is then filled with the data from the API call. If the database does have data in it then the recycler view is filled with data from the database and no API call is made.

